It was Hannah's wedding today, Uncle Kris. It was so beautiful. Everything went just as planned I suspect. What turned me into a crying mess the first time was the vows our Michael said. He promised you he would take care of her no matter what. I believe him. We are so blessed my cousins turned into such fine young ladies. Also, that they have that amazing step-dad to be there for them along with the all the other loving family. I know the value of such a person full well, and thank God that my cousins have the same. I miss you Uncle. I'm so fortunate to have the many good memories that I do. I wish you could have been there for this one, but know that you were truly in the hearts of many. Love you.

I have not seen Kris since he was young along with the rest of the family. You may remember me as Donna Cline. I lived directly across the street until the state bought all of our houses to put in the new 36. My thoughts and prayers go out to your family. May God give you all peace and comfort.

I miss my Uncle Kris so much. From crying myself to sleep to waking up crying, I can't stop thinking about how much I love him and how he has always been a part of my life. Just the other day I was looking through pictures and saw one of him flying a kite with me. I was too young to even remember but since before I had memories he has been there. Taking me to fireworks shows, helping me out when I need it, and just calling to see how I am doing. He always had so much love in his heart. Always joking, always laughing, always bringing a smile to my face. I am so, so, so blessed to have been able to make the memories that I did with my Uncle, and blessed to have had him in my life. I will miss him more than words can express, and pray that God would help us to hold on to those good memories, and remember the good heart that my Uncle Kris shared with us all.

Kris was a great Uncle for my two boys. I will always remember him as being just great to be around, full of life and just plain happy to see us. We all loved him so much. A true, heartfelt lost, but so many good memories because of who he was.
