“ I remember him all through middle school and part of highschool always clowning always put a smile on everyone's face because he was always his goofy self and never pretended to be anyone else. I remember a night back in middle school we snuck out to go hang out at the park and slide and while we were walking around a possum came from the bushes and I swear I had never seen someone jump so high, the possum even scared me too but I was so busy laughing at him he got so mad . He was such a great person with a beautiful soul. And it sucks that we haven't talked in a long time. It saddens me to know that he's actually gone.. :/ I'll never forget his laugh half the time he would laugh and make me laugh and then we would laugh even harder .. Fly high
