“ Rest well, my friend. From elementary school friends to lifelong friends you were taken away from everyone way too soon. I will definitely miss the all hours of the day calls and texts... Lol just to tell me how you're doing or what's going on or who did what and how you were feeling. Anytime you needed me I made sure to try and be there... The last call I received from you was the Friday before and we made a plan to take care of things to help you that Tuesday after the holiday. But then I receive a message telling me you're gone. There has not been one day that has went by since then, or that will go by that I will not think of you. I knew the real you. I love you my friend. I will miss you always.

And for your family, Mom, siblings, and your children... I pray for you all for healing. I know Amanda was hard to handle at times and some didn't know what to think or do but just know she loved every one of you down to the aches and pains of her bones. She talked a lot about all of you guys with me. So just know she loved you all very deeply and I know she is better off now. No more mental, physical or even emotional ailments. She is at peace just remember all of the happy times you have spent with her and keep a smile on your face. She would not want you crying for her.

Rest easy, my friend 🥺❤️
