“ Dear Betty, My thoughts and prayers are with you during this sad time for you and her family. Janet was such a nice caring person. When she would come in to see you at work, we all had fun laughing and talking. I didn't know she was suffering. She is now at peace. I know how much you will miss her. Prayers to you, Betty. With Sympathy, She Marsh

“ Janet was a VERY SPECIAL person who never gave up on those who were friends and family. She had an attitude that was unique to her value systems that never failed her, even in times of her own deep suffering, she realized that life's gifts such as friends and family were never to be abused nor neglected. I was often surprised how she could laugh away her own problems, and her illness, in order to support and encourage others. Janet loved with a love that was enduring, unyielding, and real. We are truly blessed for having had her as a dear friend and family. Our prayers are being sent to other friends and family. We believe that an end to suffering in this life is the beginning of bliss for those who were faithful to these values such as Janet possessed. We love you Janet.

“ Janet always had a light in her that was unique and non-queching. Her strength, especially in this battle she had endured, was spell-bounding to say the least. If you bumped into Janet for the first time, you would have never known she was in battle for her life, but what you would know is how she, for the moment, made you feel important and that she genially cared about how things were with you. She fought, she sacrificed, and she lived to the fullest she was capable of to the end. Words cannot describe the admiration I have for her which makes this loss even harder to bare. But knowing she is now at peace and with loved ones who had preceded her does bring comfort to my heart. See you again one day Janet.

“ It was our privilege and pleasure being able to call Janet friend and knowing her. In spite of her battle with cancer she still managed to keep that smile and always say hello and do some friendly chatting anytime we seen each other. She will be greatly missed.

Thoughts & prayers out to all family and friends.
