“ Jerry was on his 1st or 2nd job with me in Tunkhannock Pennsylvania. I was awed at his determination. He set up a pipe for welding in my backyard and came most nights and weekends to practice. I got to help him learn and watch him grow in ability and see the anticipation in his face when he saw he could make it! I always enjoyed keeping up with him as he continued to gain experience. We all truly lost a gifted young man and a rare quality seldom seen..

“ My son met Jerry in high school. They had so much in common from the start including their love of dodge trucks and anything country. I will never forget the time he came over in high school and proudly showed me an article written about him and an old welder he had. He told me that day that after graduation he planned to immediately leave state to start a career in welding- and that is exactly what he did. He was the most driven and hardworking kid I had ever met. A true old soul at heart. I will miss him referring to me as “Ma” and I will miss following along in all of his life journey’s over the last few years. He truly impacted the live’s of so many around him and he will be missed so much.
