“ In 1984, when I graduated from high school, my uncle Larry Stockton gave me a card and 50 dollars. Wow. Back then you could buy a lot of things for 50 bucks. Then Larry took me aside and told me how much he loved and cared for my mother, and added therefore you too. I thought the 50 was great, but those words were priceless. He made graduation day extra special for me.

Then Larry took me aside and told me that he loved and cared for my mother a whole lot and added, therefore you too. Those words were one of the best gifts I've ever received worth far more than the 50 dollars. He made my graduation a very special day.
